Dee Valley Volunteer Programme

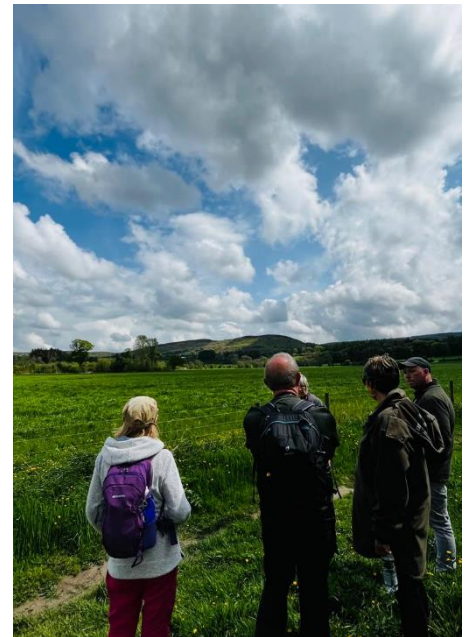

July - September

Event Round Up

Guided walks across the Dee Valley

As a new season was upon us, we've had various guided walks over the last few months. A thank you for everyone who have come out to unearth the gems of our valley. These guided walks are a great opportunity to explore the Dee Valley, meet new people and see what makes it special. From the Bluebells of Corwen-Cynwyd Railway Line, discovering the Bat species at Horseshoe Falls, and learning more about the iconic Curlew. Come along with the National Landscape team and discover the sites and species as the seasons change.

Have a look at what's coming up over the next few months.

Corwen Community Garden – An Update

The Community Garden is full of life thanks to the growing group of volunteers who attend weekly gardening sessions there every Wednesday afternoon. Volunteers have been very busy planting, watering and weeding at the Community Garden over the last few months, whilst also enjoying a cuppa and a chat with the Nature for Health team. The community can now begin to harvest lettuce, radish and rhubarb in the garden, as well as different herbs.

The grass in the community garden has been left to grow long for “No Mow May” which has allowed more flowers to bloom. This has created lots of food and habitat for insects and small mammals as well as a beautiful spot to sit and enjoy the scenery.

Thank you to everyone who has visited, volunteered and shared their experiences in the garden over the last few months.

New Picnic Table – Llantysilio Green

Getting ready for Summer – volunteers and university placement students helped the rangers to build a new picnic table at Llantysilio Green, overlooking the Horseshoe Falls. This is one of three tables going to be built here to replace the old one, and to provide more seating for families and people with disabilities or limited mobility at the top of the slope, where they can still enjoy the views.

The tables are built out of larch grown in North Wales, to cut down on carbon emissions related to transport and to support local business, and they are untreated, to reduce chemical pollution. Despite being a softwood, larch is very durable, so these tables should hopefully last many years. The funding for these benches came as part of the Levelling Up package for the Horseshoe Falls car park as a whole, improving the area for people's safety, convenience, and enjoyment.
